

Culture Starts with You—A Workshop

By Bobby Moore, Author and Consultant

“In all learning environments there can be powerful emotions. As humans we think about our world via emotions, are impacted by the climate around us, and have positive and negative appraisals and reactions to stressors. Moore explores all these notions, builds a powerful case for the culture of the school being the pivotal focus for school leaders and indeed all within the school. He shows how our interactions with others, the words we speak, how we make other feel is what leads to school culture. This is a necessary read for school leaders.”

—John Hattie, Author of Visible Learning

- The importance of aligning behaviors and practices with beliefs and values while pursuing ambitious goals for the school.
- How to have crucial conversations and positively leverage ‘moments that matter.’
